Modern Workplace

Medialine UEM Mobile

Many devices. Few clicks. One solution.

With Medialine UEM Mobile, you can easily and securely manage mobile devices without burdening your IT resources. Rely on more than 20 years of experience and a management solution that is characterized by ease of use and scalability.

Integrated and user-friendly

Enterprise Mobility Management is a core component of Medialine Unified Endpoint Management. The best-practice solution is based on over 20 years of experience and is available both as a standalone management for mobile devices and in combination with a comprehensive system management for all AD-managed devices as Unified Endpoint Management. As a managed service in the Medialine AG data centers, we offer you a comprehensive solution for your device management, which combines the simplest administration on a central console with the highest security requirements.

Challenges in device management

Many management solutions are rich in features but are optimized for operation by IT administrators due to their complexity and lack of user-friendliness. This poses challenges for companies of all sizes as IT resources are scarce and costly. Especially in heterogeneous teams and companies with many locations, different requirements, and diverse processes, bottlenecks in device management quickly arise. Medialine UEM Mobile is the only mobile device solution that is so easy and intuitive to use, despite its high functional scope and compliance requirements, that no IT resources are needed, and administration can be easily managed by the management or HR department.

MEDIALINE

With Medialine Unified Endpoint Management, you can master various requirements:

- Approval processes from departments, administration and HR
- Assignment declarations
- Group, role and rights management
- Compliance and data protection
- On- and offboarding

- Reporting and audits
- Process integration
- Geographic and language barriers
- Integration of subsidiaries and parent organizations
- Cost control and planning

Endpoint Management as a Managed Service

With UEM Mobile, Medialine offers a cost-effective and powerful managed service platform. Whether you choose pure mobile device management or the fully integrated Unified Endpoint Management solution, we take care of the technology and security, and you use the user-friendly interface to manage your devices with just a few clicks and fully automated - all with high cost-transparency and plannability! With fixed prices per device and month, you only pay for what you really use.

We protect your company's data on your end devices, both during data transfer and in the backend. With the managed services from the Medialine Company-Cloud hosted in German and Austrian data centers, you can easily, securely, and freely scale the management of your devices, starting from just a few devices.

Compliance & data protection with the Direct Access Path

In addition to managing end devices through a data center, Medialine UEM offers the ability to connect your devices directly to your infrastructure through a Direct Access Path. This allows application data and content to be exchanged directly between the device and your backend systems via a security gateway, without routing through the data center. This means that no application data is exchanged between your device and an external instance. Only management and administrative data is provided in the cloud, and there are no data protection-related restrictions.
